Pre-occupation material for poultry

Animal welfare is becoming increasingly important in poultry production. Poultry behavior is an indication of their welfare status. So it's very important to give the animals the opportunity to express their natural behaviors.

Pecking is part of the normal behavior of the poultry. It must be satisfied, otherwise it can lead to the behavioral disorders such as feather pecking and cannibalism with serious consequences. One important aspect of meeting this issue is providing suitable pre-occupation materials in poultry farms.

Vilofoss Peckstone is an easy, effective, inexpensive and safe pre-occupation material with huge advantages for all kind of poultry.

USE AND STORAGE

Three different hardness grades allow adaptation to the needs of the animals. Peckstones with hole (hard and extra hard) are available for hanging.

An inexpensive and easy-to-use hanging element is available.

Peckstone have a long shelf-life if properly stored. Keep cool, dry and safe from rodents.

APPLICATION RECOMMENDATIONS

Use one Peckstone for 500-800 animals. How to set up: The Peckstone should be set up and stored in a covered area. The stones should be plunged from the bowl and placed directly on the floor (broilers and chicks) or on top of the upturned bowl (laying hens).

Hanging is possible, which is especially interesting for the turkey husbandry. For this purpose you can use our special hanging element.

PRODUCTS

Peckstone Medium is especially for chickens, young hens and for short fattening periods.

Peckstone Hard is suitable for longer fattening periods, especially for pullets and layers.

Peckstone Extra-Hard is especially suitable for parent stocks, turkeys and also laying hens.

We recommend one Peckstone each 500 to 800 layers and turkeys each 1.000 broilers.
